

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at <http://books.google.com/>

PREFACE.

THE character and intent of this work may be best set forth by the following citation from the Preface of the first edition, published in 1893. —

Dr. William F. Poole, in the preface to his Index to Periodical Literature, edition 1892, repeated the suggestion already made by him at the meeting of the American Library Association in the same year, that a "General Index to books other than periodicals was much needed by students and literary men."

As a need was generally recognized, and it was hoped that Dr. Poole himself would undertake the task. But when several years had passed, and he, burdened with the care of important library interests in Chicago, persistently declined the undertaking, the "Publishing Section" of the American Library Association was obliged to carry out this and other similar work by collaboration; and the present editor, having had large experience as associate editor on Poole's Index, was summoned to the direction of the work.

The scope of the proposed index was not at first clearly defined, and it was a matter of some difficulty to determine just what books should be included. The general purpose was to index as far as possible all books common in our libraries which treat several subjects under one title, and to the contents of which the ordinary catalogue furnishes no guide, although they are generally treated analytically in the more elaborate library catalogues. To save libraries in the future from the necessity of repeating, each for itself, this analytical work, as well as to place its results within reach of all libraries and of individual literary workers, is the aim of the A. L. A. Index.

A more definite idea of the field covered by this index may be derived from the following statement of the classes of books included: —

1. Essays, so called, and similar collections of critical, biographical, and other monographs.
 2. Books in travel, general history, and other subjects, whose chapters or parts are worthy of separate reference, as treating, with some fullness, of individual persons, places, events, or topics.
 3. The reports and publications of boards and associations dealing with sociological matters: education, health, labor, statistics, etc.; also publications of historical and literary societies.
 4. A large number of miscellaneous books which for one reason or another seem to deserve such indexing, including some volumes of the U. S. Public Documents, etc.
- It will be seen that there is almost no limit to the number of books which might be included under these heads. For the purposes of the present publication it was necessary to establish certain rather stringent limitations, for example the following:
- a. Only books in the English language are included — the same rule that has been applied to Poole's Index and supplements.
 - b. The intention has been to index only such books as are to be found in most of our libraries, the exceptions being generally in favor of books of exceptional value, which may be found in the larger libraries, although they are absent from the smaller ones.
 - c. Books in history and travel have been sparingly included, as, once entered in, this field alone would be well-nigh boundless. But under the name of almost every important place will be found references to a few of the best books of travel which give special treatment to that place.

4. The indexing of the sociological reports (education, health, labor, etc.), and of the society publications, is quite general, references being made only to papers of some importance as furnishing monographic treatment of special subjects. The United States public documents have been hardly touched upon, only the Congressional Reports and a few other recent series being indexed.

With reference to this new edition it seems necessary to state that the additional matter, which doubles the work in size, is derived from two sources: 1st, the references printed annually from 1893 to 1899 in the Annual Literary Index in the portion called "Index to General Literature"; and, 2d, a large number of additional books of the same general character as those covered by the first edition. In this additional indexing the following libraries have collaborated: Amherst College; Auburn, Maine, Public; Boston Athenæum; Bowdoin College; Bridgeport, Conn., Public; Brockton, Mass., Public; Brooklyn, N. Y., Y. M. C. A.; Chicago, Ill., Scoville Institute; Denver, Col., Public; Detroit, Mich., Public; Dover, N. H., Public; Hartford, Conn., Public; Harvard College; Jersey City, N. J., Public; Lowell, Mass., Public; Madison, Wis., Public; Medford, Mass., Public; Newark, N. J., Public; New Britain, Conn., Institute; New Haven, Conn., Public; New Orleans, La., Howard Memorial; New York, Y. M. C. A.; Newton, Mass., Public; Northampton, Mass., Public; Peoria, Ill., Public; Philadelphia, Mercantile; Plainfield, N. J., Public; St. Paul, Minn., Public; Salem, Mass., Public; Saugus, Mass., Public; Sioux City, Iowa, Public; Springfield, Mass., Public; University of California; University of Kansas; University of Michigan; University of Wisconsin; Wesleyan University; Wisconsin State Historical Society.

Most respects the character and scope of the new edition correspond to those of the first, the work being brought down to date, and greatly enlarged without materially changing the field covered by it. An effort has been made to refer under as many subjects as possible to bibliographies and subject lists, making this work an index to such bibliographies.

The "List of Books Indexed" printed at the end of the volume will serve as a key to the abbreviated forms used in the Index, those forms being merely contractions of the full titles as given in the List; many references, however, are made to books not in the List because not regularly indexed and such references are made in a form intended to be self-explanatory. It is believed that all contractions and abbreviations employed will be found intelligible, avoiding the necessity of referring to a list or code.

While much remains to be done in later editions to make this work a complete collection of desirable references on subjects in general literature, and while its shortcomings and defects cannot be more obvious to any one than to its compiler, it is offered in the present form with the confident hope that it will be among the most useful aids in this new era of library development and progress.

LIST OF BOOKS INDEXED.

This list contains the names of the books indexed throughout for this work. But there will be found in the Index many references to other books, which have been added from various sources. (See Preface.)

In the imprints, L = London, B = Boston, P = Philadelphia.

Where imprints are omitted, it is because the books appear in various editions, and the references in the index apply equally well to either one.

The titles are spaced apart to give room for the insertion of library numbers by such librarians as care to affix them.
